New Small Group Study on Finding God in Suffering Now Available Free six-week study guide to Finding My Voice by Brewer Direct Founder Randy Brewer for church small groups gives hope for those in life's dark places.

Monrovia, CA, April, 2018— Marketing executive Randy Brewer released a free small group curriculum for churches based on a recent book chronicling his rare throat cancer diagnosis. Finding My Voice: A Story of Grace, Hope and Healing narrates Randy's story of a miraculous and innovative surgery, and how he found true healing in his relationship with God as a result of the grueling journey back to health.

Randy wrote Finding My Voice in 2017 to help others walk through life's darkest hours. For easy use by small groups, it was republished as a paperback in April 2018. The companion study guide was created with a similar mission. "I hope people will identify with the reality of wrestling with God's grace in the darkest moments," says Randy, "yet see how faith matters when all feels lost."

Each session of the six-week study guide (visit www.findingmyvoicebook.com to download it for free) is broken up into sections to foster personal growth as well as group interaction, including:

- Key principles
- Quotes for meditation
- Scripture for study and discussion
- Group discussion questions, and
- Personal follow-up application.

The study is largely focused on the topic of finding God's grace amidst suffering but also addresses religious condemnation, the importance of community, and personal worship. The six-week small group Bible study is ideal for churches looking for discussion-rich small group curriculum. Visit www.findingmyvoicebook.com to download the free study guide. Plus, the study guide also includes a section for small group leaders, helping them lead productive, hopeful conversations. Additional material on the topic of hope in the midst of suffering, including an interview with Randy as well as blog posts by Randy, are also available at findingmyvoicebook.com.

Randy is founder of Brewer Direct (www.brewerdirect.com), a leading nonprofit marketing and fundraising company founded in 2004 that serves charities globally, including Rescue Missions. Randy also serves as Vice Chairman for African Enterprise USA and is an active member of International Full Gospel Fellowship, which both provide help to the world's hurting.
